The Akkademja tal-Malti has honoured Oliver Friggieri by presenting him with the Akkademja's Gold Medal in recognition of his academic career. Professor Friggieri has succeded in consolidating literary criticism as an academic subject in the local scene, has published a great number of studies, and his literary output has been translated into sixteen languages.

The nominations by members of the Akkademja were evaluated by a jury composed of both the presidents of the Akkademja tal-Malti and the National Council for the Maltese language, and the Head of Department of Maltese (University of Malta).

The investiture was performed by the President of Malta at the Throne Room, The Palace, Valletta, after which a number of authors presented a copy of some of their work for the President's Library at San Anton which the Akkademja will be helping in its organisation.
